LAST OF LITERARY CONTESTS WINS FARIES' TROPHY FOR SENIOR CLASS

The third and last of the literary contests for the Faries' Oratorical Trophy took place yesterday at 10:30 o'clock, the event being the annual Inter-class Reading Contest. Mr. Root, who is the debating instructor of the school, was the chairman of the affair. Before the first reading he told the newcomers in school just how the cup is won by a certain class, explaining to them that the three events that are counted towards it are the debate, the oratorical contest, and the reading contest. Before the contest the standings were as follows: sophomores, 500; juniors, 400; seniors, 200, and freshmen, 100.

The first reader on the program was Edith Schuyler, the freshman candidate, her subject being "A Bear Story." The delivery of this fair young elocutionist was faultless, and as this was her first public appearance in this role, much is expected of her in the future.

The second reading, and also the winning one, was given by Phyllis Adams, who upheld the laurels of the seniors. Her subject, "The Littlest Rebel," was an excellent one, and she succeeded brilliantly in holding the undivided attention of her audience throughout the entire reading. After she had finished there was no doubt in the minds of any of the students as to who would be named as the winner.

Margaret Lusby, representing the junior class, was the next in order, her subject being somewhat similar to the one given by Edith Schuyler. It was "The Bear Family," and although quite short it was quite interesting.

Last, but not least, David Johnston, the sophomore representative, splendidly delivered the well known reading, "The Deathbed of a Traitor."

After several minutes of deliberation the three judges, consisting of Miss Fish, Miss Wilson, and Miss Grinnell, announced the following winners: Phyllis Adams, first; David Johnston, second, and Edith Schuyler, third.

STUDEBAKER OPENING

Packer & Roman report the first day of their opening as a great success by the number of people calling to admire their exhibit of new Studebakers, which are admitted to be serviceable and high class in all particulars.

A feature of the exhibit will be the new special closed car of the Sedan style, Springfield type of body.

The Special Camping Outfit, used in connection with the Studebaker touring car, is receiving its share of praise from all who inspect it.

Attention is also called to the new 5-gallon gasoline pump, which has just been installed. Packer & Roman, the proprietors, are men of unquestioned integrity, who will give their customers a square deal.

BOOTH SUGGESTS

Editor Glendale News:

Dear Sir:—I notice the band concerts are to be given Thursday evenings. Don't you think Saturday evenings would be a better time, or Sunday afternoons when the streets are crowded with visitors and residents who would thus be able to enjoy the music?

Yours truly,
F. BOOTH.

YE GINGER TAVERN

MRS. GINGER TO OPEN BEAUTIFUL NEW RESTAURANT TO PUBLIC SATURDAY

Mrs. Bertha Haffner-Ginger, widely known as a domestic scienec teacher, and long connected with the Los Angeles Times in that capacity, will open a restaurant at the corner of Broadway and Glendale avenue, Saturday. The building has been remodeled and decorated and is very attractive in appearance. In addition to being a scientific cook, Mrs. Ginger is an artist, for she has worked out a color scheme that is perfectly delicious in itself. The building itself suggests rest to the weary as well as food for the hungry. The exterior in white plaster with green trimmings, with window boxes outlining the French windows that extend along both the Broadway and Glendale avenue sides of the building, invites further investigation.

In the main dining room the walls and pillars are latticed and the fountain in the center adds to the garden effect. The soft gray of the floor and walls merges into a delicate pink above and the effect is extremely Frenchy. Tables and chairs of harmonious design are also in the gray, while the lights are softened with rose shades outlined in green, designed by Mrs. Ginger. The fountain is outlined with growing ferns and centered with a pretty statue of a Greek maiden. The private room for banquets and special parties is finished in old ivory, the walls are tinted in rose and paneled in ivory, while the enormous buffet is laden with choice pieces of cut glass and old and priceless china. A specially made table, sixteen feet long and six feet wide finished in ivory tints, occupies the center of this room, while the chairs, also made to order, harmonize with the whole. The room is lighted by the indirect system, the shades being in the form of inverted fruit baskets, with ivory shades predominating. Old rose rugs add much to the effect. French doors lead from this room to the main dining room.

Of course the kitchen is roomy, airy, well equipped and sanitary. Mrs. Ginger has a cozily furnished office in the rear of the building.

Ye Ginger Tavern will be open Saturday informally for the serving of lunches, but the formal opening will be on Sunday, when dinner will be served. Mrs. Ginger will be able to accommodate two hundred people very nicely.

HOW TO SOLVE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

The North American Review says there are but two ways to increase the food production now so urged on every hand: "The first is to increase the acreage under cultivation." Now the only way to do that on any adequate scale is to make it legally unprofitable to hold land out of use. To tax unused land at the same rate as that which is improved or under cultivation.

A meeting in the interest of this campaign to make land accessible to all on equal terms will be held Friday evening, May 25, at the home of Rev. J. N. Wright, 241 South Orange street, at 8 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Wright and Dr. I. H. Durfee will make brief addresses, after which Mrs. Lona Ingham Robinson will speak on the Atlantic City Single Tax Convention, from which she has recently returned.

After this the meeting will be thrown open for general discussion. Mrs. Lucy Durham will preside. Every one interested will be cordially welcomed.

MONARCH COMPANY'S IMPROVEMENTS

The Monarch Company, 421 South Brand boulevard, have completed the finishing touches to their show rooms. The floor has been repainted, the walls newly decorated and everything put in the best order as a fitting show room for their new display of Chevrolet Motor Cars.

An innovation are the new floor lights, which show everything in the room to its best possible advantage.

POST AND CORPS

The joint all-day meeting of N. P. Banks Post and W. R. C. will be held to-morrow at headquarters, G. A. R. hall, on Glendale avenue. The Post meets at 10 o'clock and all partake of luncheon prepared by the Corps at noon. Corps business meeting begins at 2:15. It is hoped there will be a good attendance at this meeting, as it is expected that a number of the department officers will be present.

AMERICAN DESTROYERS DO GOOD WORK

BRITISH ADMIRALTY SAYS DECREASE IN SUBMARINE LOSSES DUE TO AMERICAN PATROL

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, May 24.—"Decreased inroads of submarines on shipping the past two weeks is due to the presence of American destroyers in the danger zone," the admiralty cabled to-day. U-boats have been captured and destroyed and the American Allied patrol is doing capable work. The British navy has anti-submarine ideas that are expected to blast the submarine menace. Japanese destroyers are aiding the British navy abroad. At the battle of Arras the British captured 21,000 Germans. The British losses have been only fifty per cent. of the German losses.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—America's statement to be published soon anent the Russian situation is expected to blast Germany's "peace at her own price" propaganda. He said he was unable longer to bear seeing the American flag and hearing the bugle call. He wants to be allowed to serve his country once more. Since the charge against him has become outlawed, the officers do not know what to do with him. Some place may be found for him in Uncle Sams' service again.

UNITED EFFORTS

TO DISCUSS BEST METHODS OF EXTENDING WAR TIME AID

By Walt. Le Noir Church

Yes, that's just what it is. Where and when was the Home Guards Auxiliary started, and who started it? Place, Glendale Union High School; time, about a week or two after the Glendale Red Cross work started in same place; and its originators, promoters and first enthusiastic supporters were the Home Guards themselves, exalted to the pitch of patriotic generosity by the eloquence of "Our Own Mattison."

But it should be remembered that not only in good work but in cash subscription of $100.00, one of the Dorcas women of whom Glendale is so justly proud, headed the subscription list. How many, if any, Home Guards, or fathers, brothers, cousins or uncles of enlisted Home Guards have done as well? (Don't all speak at once. It might confuse the recording secretary.)

But that is a personal matter, which each citizen, Home Guard or no guard, has the inalienable right to individually and privately decide. The point is not so much what has been done as what is the right thing to do next, or rather the most good-productive thing to do, under conditions that face us, irrespective of conflicting theories.

To begin with, the splendid, self-sacrificing Glendale women and their co-workers from all our suburbs, including Los Angeles (what?), have the ethical and practical right to support in that work, from the Home Guards who induced them to take it up.

The fact that the noble three hundred Home Guards have dwindled in numbers to about fifty-odd active workers, more or less, does not absolve them from their original obligation to support that Home Guard Auxiliary, unless some public action be taken by that old Home Guard, and the first instigators, requesting that the Home Guard Auxiliary, as such, cease their originally planned work, because of changed conditions which place the Home Guard in a very different relation to city, county and state from that supposed to exist, at the time those loyal, efficient women undertook the Auxiliary work at the request of the Home Guards themselves.

But the war, also, is a condition, not a theory. There certainly will be need for help given to disabled soldiers and their dependents. That brings us to the question, whether it might not be best for Glendale, for the beneficiaries themselves, and for all engaged in raising moneys for such good uses, to pool their issues, so to speak, and do what President Wilson requests? Bear in mind, it is merely a request, an urgent request, it is true, but after all only a request. The President, nor Congress, nor the Supreme Court, nor any other constituted authority could constitutionally prevent citizens from raising moneys for charity, in any lawful way. But in such parlous times, when all the forces, physical, mental and moral, throughout our broad but united land, should support our President, is it not worth careful consideration whether we should comply with his earnest, repeated request, that such charitable, helpful work be done through the Red Cross, of which he is the acknowledged head? But that, also, is a matter for individual decision, as well as for community consideration. Is it not? As one of the original Home Guards, who gave my bit, not in cash, but in personal work and publicity writing, till the unquestioned legal decisions showed that we were all wrong in our ideas of our rights and duties in the premises; and, also, as one of the organizers and workers in the Glendale Red Cross, may I not make a suggestion?

In the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, next Monday evening, at 7:30, there will be an adjourned open meeting, to which all the public is invited, who are interested in Red Cross work in Glendale, with a view to deciding whether the Glendale Red Cross shall remain a branch of the Los Angeles chapter or be reorganized as an independent chapter.

The president, chairman, or other official representative of any and every secular society, association or organization in Glendale and vicinity, is ex-officio a member of the directors or executive board of the Glendale Red Cross as organized at the High School, just before the Home Guards were organized.

At that coming meeting next Monday evening, good Glendale citizens might get together in a way beneficial to all concerned, particularly to the comfort and satisfaction of our much-solicited merchants. Ask them if they would not rather give all they can spare to some one united association than—the other way.

That meeting is an opportunity for good. If the Chamber of Commerce be not big enough to hold you all, we could adjourn ot a more capacious auditorium. Is it not worth considering? Chamber of Commerce telephones, 249 J and Blue 258.

NOTE: Please bear one thing in mind. While the Glendale Chapter of the Red Cross could retain only one half membership fees and profits on buttons or other little things, perhaps they can retain to use for their work all donations and other special funds, as provided by U. S. regulations. Now, a united Glendale charity would raise ten times the amount possible by divided interests. One half of one thousand is more than the whole of two hundred. Is it not?

TO MEET YOUNG MEN

OFFICERS OF SEVENTH REGIMENT NATIONAL GUARD IN GLENDALE TO-DAY

Members of the 7th Regiment, National Guard, will be in Glendale every Thursday for the purpose of explaining to the young men of this city the advantages of enlisting in the service before the draft. It is likely that the city trustees at their meeting to-night will grant the use of the fire station as headquarters for this purpose. These men will talk to any young men interested either singly or in groups, and will answer any questions in regard to this particular branch of the service. They will explain how the men are trained and give out general information that will be of interest to any one contemplating enlisting, or any one eligible to the draft.

There are many advantages in enlisting now rather than waiting to be drafted and these men will be glad to explain these matters. Representatives of the 7th regiment are here to-day and will be glad to meet you, young men.

The government pays the transportation expenses of these men and it has been suggested that some of our patriotic restaurant people furnish them with lunch on Thursdays.

BIBLE CONFERENCE NOTES

The boys' choir of the Episcopal church, under the direction of Mrs. Bosserman, will sing at the afternoon service next Sunday, 2:30. "Songs for Service" is the title of the new song book to be used at the various sessions. This is the same book as used at the "Billy" Sunday meetings.

Literature table. Samples of books containing some of the addresses, will be on hand at each meeting. Orders will be taken and the books delivered later.

Question box. For the benefit of those desiring to ask questions, a box will be provided into which written questions, signed or unsigned, may be placed. The questions will be answered at the Sunday afternoon session.

Nursery. Little children will be cared for by competent young women, in the church bungalow at the time of afternoon meetings. This no doubt will be appreciated by mothers especially.

Box lunch. Those living at a distance who may desire to spend the entire day Sunday at the church may have the privilege of bringing their lunch and making use of the church kitchen if they choose.

Delegations are coming from Los Angeles, Pasadena, Hollywood and San Fernando. The interest in the Bible conference is becoming more general.

BOOKS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

All the books at the Glendale library pertaining to Memorial Day or containing material suitable for Memorial Day celebrations have been collected and placed on a rack where they will be easy of access to any one in search of that kind of material. This custom of collecting all material on any given subject is one that the patrons of the library have found very convenient and many of those who are in charge of Memorial Day programs are taking advantage of this convenience.

HOME GUARD TICKETS

Tickets for the benefit concert to be given to-morrow, Friday, evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Glendale Home Guards are on sale at Roberts & Echols store. The Evening News is sufficiently familiar with the character of the program to assure the public that it will be well worth hearing.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, MAY 24, 1917

WHAT IS OBJECTIVE POINT OF WAR?

The United States covers a vast area of territory and is populated by a large number of people. It is difficult for the human mind to comprehend the vastness of this Nation as to area, population and wealth.

New York is a large city. Chicago is also a large city, and there are many other large cities in the forty-eight States of the Union. There is adjacent to these cities of great population broad acres of land populated by thousands upon thousands of people. We, therefore, get the idea very emphatically impressed upon the mind that the United States is a big affair. Now, it is as easy for us to get the idea that this great Nation is at war. It is stirred up from center to circumference with the war spirit. The cry has gone out: The United States is at war with Germany.

It may be in place for those who are agitated over war conditions to inquire as to what Germany is fighting for. What conquests will satisfy the Imperial Government? Is it France they want? If they get France will they be satisfied to stop and live in peace, or will the Kaiser urge his armies on to the conquest of Great Britain? All of these countries in possession of the Imperial Government, won't there be a desire to reach out and get possession of the United States? A nation that begins war without cause, and continues it without cause, and a nation that has stepped beyond the bounds of her own territory for the purpoes of slaughtering people of other nations, and a nation that is not satisfied with taking the enemy as prisoners, but a nation that devastates every foot of ground over which her soldiers pass, causing a wilful destruction of property that can not be measured in dollars and cents, is indeed a nation that should be overthrown. Justice is justice and there is no justice in the procedure of the Imperial Government.

Now as the United States is engaging in war against this military stronghold, who is able to announce what our people must do to secure terms of peace with Germany? Who is there that can make known the objective point in this worldwide struggle? Is the war to continue in the future as it has in the past, without an objective point? This is a question for consideration, and who will be able to answer it?

IVANHOE BRIDGE

By Secretary Glendale Chamber of Commerce

Yesterday afternoon the secretary had a late but very pleasant call from a very pleasant gentleman, in whose joint work for Tropico and Glendale we Glendalians are very deeply interested. He stated, as one having intimate knowledge of all the proceedings up to date, that the long wished for, much discussed, Ivanhoe Bridge is now a certainty, which will probably be open for traffic before the last Thursday in November next. If so, what a great common cause for extra thanksgiving the people of Glendale and Tropico will have. In that also Burbank and several other parts of the wonderful San Fernando Valley will share. All this part of the valley should get together and have a glad Thanksgiving service which our great, great grandchildren will not be allowed to forget.

"How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of those bringing glad tidings."

We did not have occasion to note the pedal extremities of the bearer of this good news, but his tale of success was as music to our Glendalian ears.

This envoy extraordinary from our sister city, Tropico, is Mr. Stephen P. Veselich, whose real estate and insurance business is located in Black building, Fourth and Hill streets, Los Angeles. In substance, his welcomed story was as follows:

The $5000.00 voted by the county supervisors for the Ivanhoe Bridge, which will extend Brand boulevard into Los Angeles, is on the budget, and can be paid by September or October. The city council of Los Angeles agrees that the $5000.00 will be forthcoming when the plans for the work are ready. The right of way is secured. Over 65 per cent. of the property holders have signed proper waivers, and it would require fifty per cent. of the whole to defeat it, so the proposition is absolutely safe. The only unsigned waivers for damages on account of road cuts and fills are for one lot from a woman in Tropico, who has orally agreed to sign.

The P. E. made some suggestions about the grade, and generously offered to straighten the road approaching the bridge, all of which is agreed to. The grade the P. E. wished changed is at Rockaby and Woodstock streets.

The plans for the road are practically complete. The bridge and the road will be finished at the same time. Those in charge are instructed to proceed and the city council will pay as agreed.

The Ivanhoe bridge will be 25 feet wide, allowing 20 ft. roadway, and 5 ft. sidewalk. The road, boulevard, will be 26 feet wide, having asphalt center of 20 feet, with 3 foot shoulder on each side, much better than the ordinary county road. The estimated cost is 12 cents per square foot (exceeding that of Brand boulevard). The grade will not anywhere exceed 5 per cent., under the present plan. The contract should be let in August or first of September, and the work rushed to completion.

Though the P. E. will be assessed quite heavily, all is O. K. Under the administration of President Shoup, the P. E. is much more closely in touch with the people and better understands and more readily tries to meet their wants than when everything was directed from the eastern headquarters of the S. P., though it still controls the P. E.

With the excellent service given by the P. E., and the Ivanhoe bridge completed for auto drivers, Glendale will rapidly increase her already increasing progress. The outlook is certainly good for Glendale, the Beautiful and the Prosperous.

A CORRECTION

By Walt. Le Noir Church

In the publicity committee's report of the Red Cross meeting in the Chamber of Commerce last Monday published in Glendale News, May 22, Tuesday, was omitted by an oversight, a part of the report of Mrs. W. E. Evans, Committee on Hospital Garments. The item overlooked was $5.00 donated by the Central avenue Parent-Teacher association of Casa Verdugo through the Hospital Garment Committee, to be used by the Glendale Branch Red Cross. Said donation was duly acknowledged in open meeting and the donors cordially thanked.

DR. R. A. TORREY

The opening session of the Bible conference will be held this evening at the Glendale Presbyterian church, 7:45. Dr. R. A. Torrey will give the address on the subject, "The Burning Question of the Day: Is Jesus Coming Again?" No more prominent speaker could be secured for the opening of such a program as has been outlined.

The Bible Institute male Quartet will sing several selections. This quartet is certainly a wonderful organization. Their rendition of sacred music cannot be excelled. All are invited to the service this evening and to all the sessions.

GLEN EYRIE CARD PARTY

After a short business meeting tonight, Glen Eyrie Chapter will adjourn for the card party which has been planned by the social committee.

CHRISTIAN LITERATURE IN JAPAN

The Christian Literature Society in Japan is a remarkable organization. It is probably the most closely unionized Christian organization in Japan. It published nearly thirty-two million pages of Christian literature last year. Its executive secretary, Dr. Wainwright, is a man of unusual ability. But the power it exerts and will exert rests more upon the eagerness of the Japanese for knowledge and the ability of the Japanese to read than upon the union of more than a score of missions in its support, or the executive and literary ability of its conductors. The question now is, "What has Christianity in England and America to offer to Japan in this crisis?" Christian scholarship the world over is called to help the eager Japanese to a rational belief—to win Japan from the realism of the Russians, French and Italians to the knowledge of Christ.—Christian Herald.

When the first white man landed on these shores it is estimated that there were 10,000,000 elk here. Today there are less than 60,000.

SCENIC ROAD IN GLENDALE IS POSTED

During the past week road information signs were erected by the sign-posting crew of the Automobile Club of Southern California along Kenneth Road, one of the most picturesque motor roads in the southern section of the San Fernando Valley. This road is something like four miles in length, extending from Central avenue in Glendale, along the base of the North Glendale foothills, to Burbank. On account of its elevation this road affords an excellent view of the lower end of the San Fernando Valley, which includes Casa Verdugo, Glendale, Burbank, Tropico, and the western section of Griffith Park. Along its entire length the road has been graded and oiled and although not a bouelvard in the truest sense of the word, it may be very comfortably traveled.

A ride to and along this road is an excellent afternoon jaunt for the Los Angeles motorist. Leave Los Angeles via North Broadway and the San Fernando boulevard until Central avenue, Tropico, is reached. Follow Central avenue through Tropico, Glendale, Casa Verdugo, and continue up to the foothills. Turn left at the northern end of Central avenue onto Kenneth Road, and continue along that road to Burbank.

From Burbank the motorist may hit across the Lankershim, past Universal City, and on through the Cahuenga Pass and Hollywood, and over the Hollywood and Sunset boulevards into Los Angeles. Over every foot of this route the motorist will find direction signs erected by the Automobile Club of Southern California and, with the exception of Kenneth Road, the route is paved.

Many of the Evening News subscribers are reading the United Press bulletins, which are the latest and most authentic world's news.

Mrs. Robert Peters of Evansville, Ind., arrived in Glendale Tuesday to spend several months with her son, J. E., and family of 1500 Colorado.

The Merchants' lunch for 35 cents at the Victor Cafe and Hotel at 329 South Brand boulevard is very popular, judging from the way people are patronizing it.

The reading room of the Glendale public library will be open Memorial Day, next Wednesday, afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock. No books will be given out or exchanged.

The Music Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club meets to-morrow afternoon at the usual hour at the home of the curator, Mrs. E. W. Kinney. All members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Sarah Ward and her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Work, have returned to Glendale from Sherman, where they lived the past two years, and are living in a part of Mrs. L. W. Adams' home, 569 Pacific avenue.

J. L. Grose, successor to Conrad in the vulcanizing work at 1011 West Broadway, is demonstrating that he is an expert tire man. When you want to know something worth while about auto tires, get in touch with Grose and his expert workmen.

Miss Ella M. Libal of 813 South Brand boulevard, who has been visiting in Southern California for the past six months, leaves Saturday for her home in Chicago, going by way of San Francisco, Salt Lake City and stopping for a few days at Colorado Springs, Colo. She will then go by way of Denver. She will be greatly missed by her friends, but they all know she will be back again, in this irresistible country of our land of sunshine and flowers.

MUTUAL BENEFIT READING CIRCLE

The Mutual Benefit Reading Circle met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Toll. As guests and new members, the following ladies were present: Mrs. Charlotte Campbell, Mrs. J. S. Duey of Eagle Rock, Mrs. H. W. Flower, Mrs. Ed. M. Lee and Mrs. Zella Robison.

The last book read, "The Training of the Boy," was laid aside, after a review covering the latter part of the book was given. "The Training of the Human Plant," by Luther Burbank, was nearly completed.

Mr. Burbank's analogies between the plant and the child are very interesting. He advances the idea that, as fine species are developed in the plant world by crossing many units, each distinguished by some special trait, as size, color, strength, —so, in the United States where are so many nations represented, each of which presents some dominant, fine characteristic, we shall eventually evolve a race which shall be unexcelled in the world's history.

As love, sunshine, good air and nourishing food are essential to the growth of plants, they are in greater measure necessary for the growth of children, he says. He maintains that a child that is sent to school before he is ten years old does not receive enough sunshine and good air, or necessary contact with nature to develop properly.

Though Mr. Burbank rigidly adheres to his principle of discarding all but the best specimens when he is developing species, he believes that we should work carefully with the abnormal in child life, as we may thereby develop some unusual and rare strain. Though he mercilessly discards to the rubbish heap the pitifully weak or defective plant, he would advise no such treatment of the physically weak or mentally deficient child. He cites a list of men who, though physically weak have had great influence in the world through giving it something that had not been offered before. He believes that the state should aid and tenderly care for the mentally weak.

There will be no meeting of the Circle next Wednesday, as it will be Memorial Day.

On June 6th, the Circle will take up William A. McKeever's book, "Training the Girl," for study.

LITTLE VINCENT REEL

Little Vincent Reel, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Reel of 1455 Oak street, celebrated his third birthday on Wednesday, May 23rd. He was host at a delightful little party which took place at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Foster of Florence, Calif., twenty-seven of his friends being present. The house was beautifully decorated in pink and green.

Those present were Dorothy Farnell, Mary Betsworth, Ruth Becker, Grace Frowley, Olga Topel, Thelma and Geraldine Reins, Ethyl and Franklyn Stout, Merry and Lillian Foster, Harold Stout, Leonard Reins, Eric Topel, Vincent Reel, Mrs. Iva Reins, Mrs. Bertha Stout, Mrs. John Topel, Mrs. Chas. Stout, Mrs. Lola Reel, Mrs. George Foster, Mrs. John Siler, Mrs. Harry Kerslake, Miss Ella Duvall, George Foster, G. V. Reel and Hayes White.

THE PREPAREDNESS TRAIN

(By Glendale's Sec. C. C.)

That movable University on Wheels will arrive at the Salt Lake Station, Glendale avenue and Second street, Glendale, May 26, next Saturday morning, at 9 o'clock. Chorus: "When the roll is called up yonder, I'll be there!" All sing.

It is desirable that half a dozen autos be there to take the railroad party around Glendale. Will those volunteering to be thus hospitable to Glendale's guests, please telephone or otherwise report their names to the Chamber of Commerce as soon as convenient, so that proper arrangements may be made? Mr. Clendenin, President of the Chamber of Commerce, is chairman of the Committee of Reception and arrangements therefor. He has just returned to Glendale after several weeks' absence, just in time to take prominent and honorable part in the most important function known to Glendale for many a day. The Chamber of Commerce telephones are 249 J and Blue 258.

At Whittier, yesterday, Mr. White, manager of that Preparedness Train, told the Glendale Chamber of Commerce secretary that their party intended to take a number of fine pictures of Glendale scenes to illustrate the Salt Lake Route's advertising literature, and such pictures would advertise Glendale all over the world. He would be pleased if a large number were present to greet that great train on its arrival. The Salt Lake Route has just taken a life membership in the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. That railroad is a perfectly good Glendalian.

It would be well if the Grammar school pupils could be at the Salt Lake Station by nine o'clock, so as to go through the many cars and see their contents as early as possible, before the crowds that will later be thronging there. That will not interfere with the special attention to be given the children at 2 p. m. A great deal of practically instructive literature about planting will be given away.

There should be several autos ready at the station again at about 12:30 o'clock p. m. to take the railroad party out to the home of Mr. John Hyde Braly, corner of Brand boulevard and Milford street, Glendale, being 205 North Brand boulevard.

The railroad party will there be photographed with the background of that long fence (300 feet) of Tausend Shoene roses, which are thickly growing from the ground, seven to eight feet high. Mr. White is a rose expert and says he knows of nothing like that wonderful rose fence anywhere in this country or in any other country. He is very desirous of getting cuttings of those rare and lovely roses, which will be duly presented to him by Mr. and Mrs. Braly. By the way, the Chamber of Commerce is indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Braly for another vase of those radiant roses, sent in yesterday while the secretary was at Whittier.

Whittier was all fussed up beautifully yesterday with flags and flowers. It was a great day in Whittier. A large delegation of Salt Lake Route officials was there to help Whittier celebrate the arrival of that Preparedness Train, the first one over the newly laid rails of the incoming Salt Lake Route R. R. A new flag was raised in the beautiful Central Park. The little cannon was fired. Popular Mayor Frank W. Wright and City Atotrney Wingert were eloquent in greeting their railroad guests and expressing gratitude for the freely given advantages offered by that Preparedness Train.

The savant, Dr. Webber, made a very happy impromptu speech, unexpectedly called on because of a hitch in the program, as the chairman, Honorable Jefferson Wingert, City Attorney, suggested. Dr. Webber said that if all the people, from eight to eighty, would do what is taught in the short agricultural courses provided by the state and illustrated on that Preparedness Train, the whole problem of food supplies would be promptly solved permanently. The world depends on the fields, the gardens and the vacant lots of America. The boys and girls of the Nation can save the Nation.

Glendale's C. C. Sec. refused an auto ride from the Park to the Salt Lake Route station about eight blocks away. He preferred to follow the band, like the other boys. We trooped along the street and sidewalks, close up to the music, which the State School Band made well worth hearing. Between tunes some popular stunts were "voiced" on the fife by very popular school cut-ups in khaki; judging from the unwreathed smiles and bubbling laughter of the Red Cross uniformed and other school girls.

It was noticeable that in the band, among the cadets and the school girls and boys, all nationalities and colors were represented. The handsome, thriving, high-grade city of Whittier, like the grand old New England poet for whom it was named, is evidently no respecter of persons regarding the basic rights of humanity and citizenship.

Even in the motley crowd following the band, or rather paralleling it on asphalt and sidewalk, all Whittier seemed to keep step with their pets, the cadets. Even the Home Guard kept step, and they all also carried rifles. Whittier has plenty of men behind the guns to take care of herself in emergency. Yet Whittier has nearly completed the largest Church of Friends (Quakers) in the world, and its membership is about 1200 and its unaffiliated friends legion. That church will cost about $70,000. It is a credit to Whittier and to the Friends, who support President Wilson to a man, woman and child. Whittier is a great educational center, and is as proud of her High schools and Grammar schools also as is Glendale, with almost as good reason.

It is hoped that within a year Glendale may have as fine and flourishing a Chamber of Commerce as Whittier has developed under her affable, courteous and efficient Secretary Hague. Reception room, business office and spacious audience chamber!? It all made Glendale's Sec. C. C. see visions and dream dreams. (Which will surely come true. All that such beneficent dreams and visions ask is time. "Give us time," they seem to say.)

In that interesting march down past the big fine High School to the most promising unfinished railroad station, several memorable things were seen and heard. One hoary veteran fifer had lost his ability to march, but not to fife. So, not in a one-hoss shay but in a perfectly good flivver, he led the procession, screaming musical defiance to all our Nation's foes through his cherished old fife which could a tale unfold of parlous times and scenes back in those bloody early sixties. Then behind the 29 old veterans, almost weighted down by medals, there followed, lithe, active, full of pep, about as many Boy Scouts, not raised by fond mothers for that purpose, but ready and competent right now to die behind their guns for their country if danger threatens. Then all along the line of march, sitting down in doorways, were dear old ladies whose dimming eyes were brighter for the patriotism of their great-grandsons and daughters.

Oh, this terrible war has its compensations. We people of all nations, suddenly become "All Americans," did not before realize how strong were the common bonds which bind us together as a nation, one and inseparable, which shall not perish from the earth. Foes without we heed not. Foes within will soon or late all be brothers, after the first shocks of the international earthquake have passed; for the few who cannot amalgamate into the one great union of loyalty will gradually fade away and return to their own, just as most of us would do were we in a foreign nation unexpectedly thrust into war with our own country, regardless of the causative ethics or un-ethics. We all are humans alike.

Mr. Douglas White, on the platform of the unfinished station, was introduced by Mayor Wright as "the Greatest Glad-hander in California" —which is some glad-handing.

The Dean of the Runabout University denied the soft impeachment, but his all-comprehensive smile disproved the denial. It will dawn on Glendalians at 9 a. m. Saturday, May 26. Don't miss it.

SUCH WONDERFUL PROSPERITY

Los Angeles papers continue to boast of the wonderful prosperity of that city and bemoan the scarcity of laborers, yet big concerns continue to pay starvation wages to men who have to take these jobs or be idle. An employe of a big firm that has lately built up a big business in Glendale by underselling our home dealers, let out the secret of this company's success the other day in conversation with a Glendale resident. He said his salary was $1 per day and 4 per cent. commission on his sales, the said 4 per cent. never being paid for three months after it was earned. He works from midnight till noon and often later, driving about the streets, constantly in danger of holdups (in which case what is stolen is deducted from the $150 he puts up to get the job), and always liable to lose an account owing to the many changes of residence during a month. He has to make out his own statements and do his own collecting, thus entailing 15 or 16 hours' work two or three days in a month. Asked why he accepted a job from such conscienceless human hogs, he said he had a wife and two babies to keep and it was that or starve. He was then getting ready to quit this job to accept a better one. By paying such wages this great, wealthy company is able to sell for less than home dealers who pay decent wages. And the buying public, always eager to save a penny, helps to perpetuate this monstrous injustice by patronizing most liberally this Los Angeles company. We are in hearty accord with the editor's recent statement on the duty of buying at home.

Indignant Citizen.

U. S. C. TO TEACH HOUSEWIVES TO COOK BY SCIENCE

"The kitchens of American housewives must be mobilized as a necessary means of keeping the nation economically strong."

Acting upon this generalization, Dr. Leroy S. Weatherby, head of the chemistry department of the University of Southern California, is devoting the final three weeks of the college term to a special course in dietetics. He plans to give a full course in dietetics, the chemistry of nutrition, scientific diet, household economy and the conservation of food values as a special feature of the coming Summer Session.

The Summer Session opens July 2 and ends August 10. Ordinarily such a course as this would be open only to advance students, but in view of the war situation Doctor Weatherby will adapt it to the needs of persons who have never studied chemistry a day in their lives.

The title of the course in the Summer Session will be "Elementary Organic, Food and Textile Chemistry." The main work will consist of lectures, there being also laboratory practice for those who desire.

Through an arrangement with the American Red Cross, Doctor Weatherby has made special arrangements for Red Cross members to attend these classes.

LA CANADA

A huge success marked the formal opening of the La Canada public school building last Friday night, when the teachers, Miss Horne and Miss Hausam, presented the child interpretation, "The Posey Bed," in operetta form in the auditorium. It was an evening of perfections. The eighteen-acre brush pile at school street was cleared off, La Canada felt proud of herself Friday night. It was an evening of perfections. The children were trained to the exact point of presentation. The coloring and lighting effects lent a fairy atmosphere to the operetta. After sitting through the evening, the guests declared that the acoustics of the building were excellent. On the whole, people were very well pleased with the building and especially mentioned the good ventilation.

"The Posey Bed" was the final program for this term of school. The costumes were designed by Miss Henrietta Horne, the dancing supervised by Aldine Norton, while Miss Housam took particular charge of the expression and singing.

The characters were Alta Lee, Barbara and Marjorie Potts and Emily Moses, the Sun Bonnet Babies; Florence Pate, Pussy Willow; Janet Metzger, the Daffodil; Lois Griffin, Violet; Briquida Nunez, Buttercup; Jennie Sparicio, Dandelion; Katherine Maynard, Pearl Slutman, Mabel Marx and Lucy Escalera, Daisies; Sadie Gutares, Alma Armstrong and Violet Hall, Roses; Freda Potts, Sunflower; Adams Bolton, King Pansy; Chas. Anderson, John Famularo, John Micciche, Wm. Marcus, Martin Nunez and Harold Nyby, Guards; Joe Famularo, John Bonino, Tony Conzoneiri, Honore Griffin, Rudolph Orduno and Arthur Famularo, Maypole-bearers; Gertrude Marcus, Poppy; Hallie Griffin, Inger Nyby, Theresa Monfiigo, Butterflies; and Roma Penfield, Liesel, the Goose Girl.

After the play the young actors and actresses carried ample plates of ice cream and cake to the guests.

For the first time sewing on bandages purchased by themselves, the La Canada Red Cross branch met last Tuesday afternoon in the school building. Heretofore all work has been supplied by the Pasadena chapter. But the fact that the materials had actually been purchased independently of any other organization inspired an added enthusiasm.

Mrs. S. H. Goddard, who is a trained nurse, took the initiative in cutting the bandages. The women accomplished an enormous amount of work.

It is still very probable that a class in First Aid will be formed. But every one who wishes to take the course is asked to hand her name to Miss Rowena Green during the next week. If a class of ten is formed, each member will be taxed five dollars. If more than ten join the class the fee will be less. Until now the women have been rather timid about expressing a definite desire to take the lessons, although several have spoken favorably of entering the class. It is very necessary that the names be handed to Miss Green soon, in order to get an estimate of the exact number. This class is not only for members of the Red Cross but for anyone who wishes to join. Every one is urged to join and help the good cause along. The next Red Cross meeting will be Tuesday p. m., May 29th, at the school building.

Mr. E. A. Brigham of Commonwealth avenue states that his weather gauge for the season reads twenty-two inches of rain. Because of the gradual, well distributed rains, the ranchers in La Canada claim this is the best season for many years. They say that almost every drop has soaked into the ground.

"Faith and War" will be the topic discussed by Dr. D. A. Scott next Sunday in his sermon. This question, so vital at this time, should inspire a large number to go out to hear the Doctor.

Still busy, the "Busy Fingers" met last Monday afternoon and sewed on tray cloths. This young organization has been working under the supervision of the La Canada Red Cross association for the past few weeks. They will continue at least until the school term closes, when their leader, Miss Fannie Jewett, expects to return east to Connecticut.

In support of the national war issue, the United States Liberty Loan bonds are now obtainable from the local banks. There is absolutely nothing uncertain about these bonds. They are backed by the government and yield three and one-half per cent. interest. They can be bought for fifty dollars and up. The B. O. Kendall Co., Investment Bankers and Brokers of Pasadena, represented in La Canada by T. Fenton Knight of Roy street, will be glad to take any subscriptions for the bonds. One might communicate with Mr. Knight either at his home in La Canada or at the B. O. Kendall offices, 67 N. Rayond avenue, Pasadena.

In view of the fact that five La Canada boys have joined the army or navy, it has been suggested that La Canada might contribute liberally to the fund. This not only offers a safe investment, but it gives an opportunity for those with money to loan to aid in the great world struggle.

The boys from La Canada, or who have parents residing there, who have enlisted are Russel Stickney, U. S. Navy; Howard Wright and Robert Murray, Officers Reserve Corps; Howard McMullin, Army Reserve Corps; and Edward Jewett, Naval Reserve Corps.

The vote of thanks, in the form of a resolution, given me and presented by the president of the Parent-Teacher association, Mrs. Penfield, on the opening of the new school house, was a great surprise and touched me deeply. I take this means of thanking every one who stood by me and the school board in making it possible for beautiful La Canada to have a school building which, set in its natural beauty, is an ornament to the community. Especially do I thank those who were appointed by the citizens of La Canada as an advisory board for the school trustees.

As the years go by, I trust that all will come to love and appreciate the new building, and those who go from it to other schools and vocations will look back with pleasure to the days spent in it, and will be an honor to the "Valley" they love so well.

MORE BOOKS THAN EVER

The rising cost of paper, ink and the other materials of bookmaking did not curtail the number of publications in 1916; instead there was a net gain of 711. Of American publications there was a falling off in the number brought from the other side, showing the writers, though generally maintaining the pen is mightier than the sword, have taken up the latter. That the cost of production does not restrict the book output is indeed fortunate for aspiring authors; if the publishers chose to make the price of paper an excuse, they could make the path to literary success stonier than it is now. But in a land that turns out 10,445 titles in a year, as this one did in 1916, there is a chance for the mediocre. Of the output, 8797 were works done in America, so leaving out the best sellers and class and technical books, quite a number of poets and story tellers must have taken their places among the elect. One would hardly think authors were so plentiful.

It is probable the war has speeded up book production, and that it would have to make printing costs very high before the tide of war-borne fiction and other matter would be stemmed.—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

WAR AND THE PRESIDENTS

Will this war make a President of the United States?

Every other American war has produced at least one, and some of them more than that.

What man now unknown will come from this conflict a hero and march straight to the White House?

The Revolution converted a colonial colonel into the Father of his Country and gave to the United States its first President. Old Hickory Jackson was born of the battle at New Orleans.

His victories in Mexico carried General Zach Taylor, "Rough and Ready," from the Rio Grande to the presidency.

The Rebellion took a little modest man from the West, molded him into our country's foremost soldier and then set him in the White House as President U. S. Grant.

Colonel Roosevelt did not stop galloping with his "Rough Riders" in the Spanish War of 1898, but dashed right into the presidence as a typical "man on horseback."

Whose steed is now headed toward the executive mansion?

War has also made some of our civilian Presidents. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson were as much the output of the Revolution as Washington himself. Is there a presidential egg hatching in Congress to-day?

A large number of Presidents saw military services, but attained too little distinction as soldiers to attract much attention.

James Monroe had a brief career in the Revolution, and Lincoln was in the Black Hawk War.

One Ohio regiment gave two Presidents to our republic—R. B. Hayes and William McKinley. His war record had much to do in making Hayes governor of his State. Garfield was another soldier President.

The present war has not been prolific of individual heroes, but if a million American soldiers ever get to France I'll wager that one of them comes home with the presidency in his inside pocket.

What section of America will this war-made President hail from?

New England failed to produce one really big officer in the Civil War, as the world refuses to rank Butler and Banks in the class of geniuses.

Harvard turned out only four major generals, while the University of Pennsylvania had six, one of whom, McClellan, commanded an independent army.

Long ago General Dabney H. Maury, a Confederate soldier, pointed out that Pennsylvania and Virginia had produced more soldiers of fame than any other States.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

AUTO CLUB AFTER MOTOR THIEVES

It is a sad moment for the motorist when, upon arriving at the point where he left his machine, he finds that it has disappeared. The car that the motorist worked so hard to secure has been stolen, and the chances are, that unless a complete record of the numbers of the various parts of the machine and the individual identification marks has been retained, it will never again be seen by its rightful owner. Investigation shows that before leaving the car the motorist had parked it "safely" in the shadow of a tree, but had forgotten to apply the lock. Result—Mr. Crook simply inserted the key—of which he carries a goodly assortment—stepped on the starter and "gave 'er the gun." That's all.

The Automobile Club of Southern California is at this time making a determined effort to increase the effectiveness of its campaign against motor thieves, which it has been conducting for years. Head Detective Powell of the Club's Theft Bureau says that the Bureau is handicapped unless it has the assistance of the motoring public. If the Club's detectives are given a complete list of identification marks of a car soon after the theft occurs the chances are five to one that it will be recovered. The motorist can help the Club in this work of locating stolen machines by filling in identification blanks and listing them with the Club—before the car is stolen, then when the auto is taken the Club will have a complete list of its identification features upon which to work. Here is a list of "preventatives and cures" for the auto theft trouble:

1. Secure identification blanks from the Auto Club's free Bureau, fill them in and file with the Club before the car is stolen. Keep a duplicate list for the assistance of local police authorities. When car is taken report same immediately.

2. Don't fail to park near a light at night.

3. Have a lock on your car and be sure to use it.

4. Be sure to mark your car with secret identification marks.

5. Don't fail to write name in indelible ink inside all tires.

6. Don't rent private garages to strangers without notifying the Theft Bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

A census has been ordered in Germany of all shoes—working, walking, riding, sporting, evening, sandals and slippers.
